

CLINICAL TRIAL MANAGEMENT AS A PROFESSIONAL SERVICE

Gita Mathur
Department of Organization and Management
College of Business
San Jose State University
San Jose, CA 95192-0070
mathur_g@cob.sjsu.edu
408-924-3553

ABSTRACT

Clinical trials in the drug development process are increasingly being conducted as a professional service by contract research organizations for sponsors seeking to commercialize their discoveries. Clinical trial management is examined as an evolving capability of these professional service providers. A conceptual framework and hypotheses focus on project management capability as a source of competitive advantage in this context.

Keywords: product development, professional services, project management